

Benefits

- Gain access to NACCED's national network of experienced local government housing and community development professionals.
- Attend NACCED's year-round trainings, conference, and other educational opportunities at a special discounted member rate. Trainings include topics like CDBG Basics, LIHTC 101, Fair Housing, Subrecipient Management, Financial Reporting, and more.
- Receive access to resources from counties across the country with NACCED's online resource library, including sample contracts, RFPs, program success stories, and other relevant documents you can use.
- Representation for your programs in Washington, DC before the Administration, Congress, and federal agencies.
- Access to leaders at federal agencies, especially HUD Office of Affordable Housing Programs and Community Planning and Development.
- Learn from peers and shape national policy through NACCED's Committees focused on housing, community development, and economic development.
- Receive regular email communication from the NACCED staff in Washington, DC with the latest legislative and regulatory updates.
- Instantly ask questions and receive feedback from peers across the country using the Technical Assistance Listserv.
- Access the career center, where you can post your own open roles and view job postings from across the country.

$515 Annually

Who is an affiliate member?

Entitlement cities, non-entitlement counties, urban county participating cities, towns, state and regional associations, coalitions of cities, quasi-governmental agencies, and nonprofits.

Who is NACCED?

The National Association for County Community and Economic Development (NACCED) is the premier organization empowering local governments to create thriving and sustainable communities.

NACCED builds generational capacity by providing education, resources, advocacy and peer support that strengthens local governments' ability to create sustainable communities and equitable economies, with safe and affordable housing.

NACCED's Mission:

- Educate and train local government community development and affordable housing leaders
- Provide a peer-to-peer network of industry professionals
- Serve as a voice in Washington on budgetary, programmatic, and regulatory issues pertaining to community development, economic development and affordable housing
- Educate the public on the value of affordable housing and community development investment

Proud affiliate of NACo since 1978

CONTACT US

@NACCEDnews

NACCEDnews

info@naced.org

(202) 367-1149